(Source: Bureau of Labor Statistics: Occupational Outlook Handbook, 2008-2009)

- Through 2016, overall student enrollment in elementary, middle, and secondary schools—a key factor in the demand for teachers—is expected to rise more slowly than in the past as children of the baby boom generation leave the school system.
- Although student enrollments in general are expected to grow slowly, continued increases in the number of special education students needing services will generate a greater need for special education teachers.
